The Fearful Threat Made Against Christianized Chinese,

The Chinese helpers or interpreters connected with the Chinese Missions in this city are in the habit of nolding missionary services, consisting of and singing, on Third street, near I, each Sabbath afternoon, and their meetings are generally quite largely attended by their fellow countrymen. It seems that some of the disciples of Confuctus have, however, become diseatisfied with the effect of these meetings, and on Sunday last when the leaders came to the cousal place to hold their services they found posted up a large white piece of paper covered with Chinese characters, and which was a solemn warning from the adherents of idol worship against further efforts by their wayward Celestial brethren to convert the Chinese to the ways of Christianity. It may not be generally known that a blinck paper of the same sign of the Kn-Klux Klan order, and headed with skull and cross bones, would to the Same significance to the Chinese that a blinck paper of the same sign of the Kn-Klux Klan order, and headed with skull and cross bones, would to the Southern colored voter, but such is the case. The placard, when interpreted and reduced to American comprehension, read as follows:

"It is claimed by the Christian preachers that Christ is the Lord of heaven and earth and the Creator. They only preach to make money, and it is useless to dispute with them, but something must be said to inform the people against the new false religion. It is learned from Christianity that Jesus washorn only 1 St. reading the Scriptures, exhortation and singing, on Third street, near I, Jule's Favorite Segars. Try them.

Jule's Favorite Segars. Government of Koursk (Southern Russia), were much disestiafied with the bread supplied by the farm steward, alleging that it was unfit for food, and threatening to leave off work. After their dinner, they all withdrew to a barn to rest during the hottest period of the afternoon. The steward looked them in and went away; soon after four farmers came and set fire to the barn. The fire epread rapidly through the building, which was like tinder, and soon the whole barn was in flames. The shricks of the unfortunate prisoners soon brought some people to the spot. They could not help them because the doors opened inward, and already the mass of frantic women so jammed the doors from them fruitless. Five wemen were taken out alive, but so fearfully burned that they died almost immediately. All the remaining 114 perished on the spet. One of the incen diaries went off and drowned bimeel! right away; the other three are in prison. The odject of the laborers who set fire to the barn was to free the prisoners; but as in case of incendary attempts in jails, those who were intended to be saved were the first

NOBILITY AND CORNS .- What can be the reason that the nobility and gen try, and the public in general, are so ready to advertise the afflictions from which they suffer? I took up the Belgian News, from an advertisement in which I learnt that dukes, early and lords seem anguilly troph earls and lords seem specially troub led with corns, and that a duchess adds her testi nony to theirs as to the merits of a fereign corn doctor. I would suggest that well-fitting bosts or shoes, made to suit the natural shape of the foot, would not only pleasantly act upon the tempers of their weamers, but would go far to ruin the profession of chiropedists Abroad, I believe, most of the bootmakers are chiropodists.
